Applicant has requested the withdrawal of the finality of the previous office action and the entry of the amendment based on the alleged entry by the examiner of a new grounds of rejection in the final office action that was neither necessitated by the Applicant's amendment nor based on an IDS submitted by Applicant. Examiner declines to withdraw the finality of the previous office action.

Examiner assumes that the Applicant's representative is highly experienced in patent prosecution because of the representative's patent bar registration number (32,815), and the cogent responses to Examiner's office actions. Because of this, the representative's claim that the grounds of rejection of claim 37 in the final office action was "new" is unpersuasive.

In the first office action, claims 3 and 20, among others, were rejected over Tiffany in view of Saliga and Dlugos. The substance of claim 3, by itself, was the same as claim 37. Claim 3 was dependent on claim 2, which in turn was dependent on claim
1. Claim 37 was dependent on claim 20, in turn dependent on claim 1.

In the final office action, claims 3, 20, and 37, among others, were rejected over Tiffany in view of Saliga and Dlugos. No new explanation of how these references applied to claim 37 was genuinely required, because of claim 3. The Examiner had provided ample explanation and information to sustain a rejection of claim 37 in the first office action, although that claim number was left out in a typographical error.

Applicant had all the information needed for any experienced patent prosecutor to form an opinion of the patentability of claim 37. If there was any doubt, Applicant could have contacted the examiner for a clarification on claim 37. It should have been clear to any reasonable patent prosecutor that the omission of claim 37 from the first office action was an oversight or typographical error, because standard practice at USPTO is to address all pending claims. It should have been equally clear to any reasonable patent prosecutor what the examiner's opinion of the patentability of claim 37 was by assuming the omission of claim 37 was an oversight or typographical error, and reading the rejection of claims 3 and 20. Therefore, the Applicant's request for withdrawal of the finality of the previous office action is declined.

With respect to Applicant's request at page 7 "that this paper also be treated as a Petition under 37 C.F.R. 1.181 requesting withdrawal of the Finality..." Applicant's request does not constitute a proper petition. Such a petition must be filed as a separate paper as required under 37 C.F.R. 1.4(c).

With respect to the amendment, it will not be entered because the numerous amendments to the claims require further consideration and possibly search.
